- This document is the Agile Team Values for Team Pseudoers, WAH4H Hospital Information System project.
- Only one document for the whole group. Each group member, add your name, signature and date signed below.

I, as a member of Team Pseudoers, promise to do my very best to abide by the values of our team listed below. We have discussed and agreed to follow these values throughout the WAH4H project. I understand that I will evaluate myself and my peers based on the agreed-upon values objectively during sprint reviews and at project closure.

Evaluation Rubric

+1	Exceeds expectations — proactively drives team success beyond assigned responsibilities
0	Meets expectations — fulfills assigned responsibilities consistently and reliably
-1	Below expectations — requires follow-up, causes friction, or falls short of commitments

1. DEPENDABILITY

- a. We are always active in communication channels.

+1	Weekday replies within 12 hours; weekend replies within 24 hours. Proactively flags availability changes in advance.
0	Weekday replies within 24 hours. Unavailable on weekends without notice.
-1	Often unresponsive or requires multiple follow-ups before responding.

b. We follow through on commitments.

+1	Delivers work early and makes progress in other areas without being asked.
0	Consistently delivers work within the expected timeframe.
-1	Most work takes longer than estimated; commitments require external follow-up.

c. We are consistent and predictable.

+1	Delivers predictable results week over week and actively helps establish consistency for the rest of the team.
0	Maintains a consistent level of output. Others can plan around their work habits.
-1	Performance is erratic. Others cannot reliably plan tasks that depend on their output.

2. ACT LIKE AN OWNER

a. We are self-driven — we don't need nudging to perform.

+1	Proactively nudges other team members forward and pushes own deliverables and the project ahead without prompting.
-----------	--

0	Performs tasks independently without requiring follow-up from PM.
-1	Work stalls unless someone checks in; requires repeated reminders to stay on track.

b. We take 120% responsibility for everything we do.

+1	Completes assigned tasks to 120%: independently identifies adjacent problems, fixes some, creates new tasks, and begins tackling the most impactful ones without being asked.
0	Completes assigned tasks to 100% fully and on time.
-1	Completes tasks to roughly 80%; relies on others to fill in remaining gaps.

c. We improve the team beyond our assigned scope.

+1	Upgrades and creates systems that extend beyond own assigned tasks, proactively seeking ways to create value for the team.
0	Improves processes and tools directly around their own assigned tasks.
-1	Completes only what is directly assigned without looking left or right.

d. We make sure others are held to our standards.

+1	Actively coaches and trains teammates to level up their skills and outputs.
0	Reviews teammates' work and provides constructive feedback.
-1	Does not review others' work; skips peer review steps.

3. CLEAR COMMUNICATION

a. We communicate openly and proactively.

+1	Proactive communicator. Embraces difficult conversations. Expresses thoughts fully and honestly with no need to be prompted.
0	Shares information when asked. Does not actively withhold relevant updates.
-1	Avoids difficult conversations, lacks transparency, or withholds information that affects teammates.

b. We are direct and concise.

+1	Communicates complex ideas clearly in minimal words. Others understand immediately on a single read.
0	Uses minimal filler words. Basic ideas are understood on first read.
-1	Uses excessive filler words or padding. Messages require multiple reads to understand the core point.

c. We align expectations proactively.

+1	Clearly and consistently updates task status and flags changes before they become problems. Everyone on the team always knows where things stand.
0	Updates task status on schedule during standups and sprint reviews.
-1	Does not update task status regularly; changes are discovered by others rather than communicated.

d. We are easy to work with.

+1	Seeks to understand where others are coming from. Finds win-win solutions. Others actively enjoy collaborating with them.
-----------	---

0	Cooperative and professional in interactions. Does their part to maintain productive working relationships.
-1	Uncooperative, nitpicky, or unresponsive in ways that create friction for teammates.

4. EFFICIENT EXECUTION

a. We deliver results.

+1	Consistently over-delivers: scope is exceeded, quality is higher, or delivery is ahead of schedule.
0	Delivers expected results within the agreed scope and timeline.
-1	Delivers less than expected or significantly slower than the agreed timeline.

b. We execute quickly.

+1	Executes so fast and effectively that others sometimes need to catch up. Removes blockers proactively without waiting.
0	Executes at a good pace. Completes tasks without requiring external pressure.
-1	Execution is slow or requires constant unblocking from PM or teammates.

c. We do not get stuck — we always have a way forward.

+1	Always has a structured plan to resolve blockers: Docs → Google → AI tools → Stack Overflow → ask the right person → create a thread. Never blocks the team for more than 30 minutes on a solo problem.
-----------	---

0	Researches issues and asks for help on harder problems in a reasonable timeframe.
-1	Gets stuck on problems for more than 30 minutes without any visible progress and asks basic questions that are resolvable with minimal research.

d. We value simple, pragmatic solutions.

+1	Identifies the simplest possible solution at the right level of abstraction. Eliminates entire categories of problems through good design decisions.
0	Uses available libraries and standard tools to achieve goals cleanly.
-1	Reaches for overly complex custom solutions when simpler options exist.

5. CONTINUOUS LEARNING

a. We are curious about our work.

+1	Knows not just their own work but the broader context and extension of it — adjacent systems, related standards, downstream impact.
0	Knows their own assigned work inside and out.
-1	Cannot explain how their work fits into the larger system when asked.

b. We take feedback and improve.

+1	Actively seeks out feedback before being given it. Applies learning immediately.
0	Applies feedback when given. Same feedback is never needed twice.
-1	Requires the same corrective feedback multiple times without visible change.

c. We overcome challenging problems.

+1	Consistently chooses the most difficult and impactful tasks. Overcomes complex problems and documents learnings for the team.
0	Tackles difficult problems and works through them, even if it takes time.
-1	Consistently gravitates toward easy tasks and avoids or postpones difficult ones.
